

AMD Hires Graphic Designer

Leah Mow has recently joined Anderson Mraz Design. An alumna of both Eastern Washington University and Spokane Falls Community College, Leah holds a BA in art history and an AAS in graphic design.

Shortly after graduation from EWU, Leah served for a year in AmeriCorps, where, among other things, she organized an art program at Hutton Settlement in Spokane Valley. But it was during her tenure as an art gallery director that Leah was first exposed to marketing and promotions – an interest that led her to the design program at SFCC.

Following an internship with a local designer, Leah freelanced until she was hired by an advertising agency in Coeur d’Alene. She accepted a position at AMD earlier this year, where she provides design expertise in several key areas, including production.

“Leah brings a fresh perspective to our studio,” said John Mraz, founding principal and senior designer at AMD. “She has great design instincts and sensibilities, and we look forward to her creative influence on our clients’ projects.”

Leah sits on the board of directors of the Spokane Advertising Federation, where she also co-chairs the ADDY® committee.

Founded in 1988, AMD is a full-service, multidisciplinary design firm. The company’s primary areas of expertise include brand strategy, corporate identity, print, collateral, packaging, website development, and environmental graphic design.
